Text and Required Materials:

Adams, W. Royce and Becky Patterson. Developing Reading Versatility. seventh edition. Harcourt Brace College Publishers: Ft. Worth; 1997.

Journal: A separate notebook of paper that will hold your journal assignments.
pens and paper

Requirements of the Class:

Attendance. You are allowed 4 absences. These absences should be used for illness/ and or legitimate emergencies. Three consecutive absences will force the instructor to assume you are no longer interested in the successful continuation of this class. After 4 absences you will be dropped. The final date to drop a class is Friday, March 13, 1998. After this day any student enrolled must receive a grade.

Please be on time to class. Two tardies or early departures will equal a student's absence.

Journal. You will produce a journal this semester. The purpose of the journal is to provide you with a place for risk-free thinking and writing. This is not diary, but a place to record your responses, thoughts and reactions to your reading. I prefer the use of spiral notebooks because all of your writing will be held together for you.

Reading and Writing Assignments. You will be required to read assignments from your text as well as hand-outs from your instructor. Most writing assignments will be in response to what you read.. There will be discussion groups. Failure to participate in these groups will result in an unfavorable grade in class participation.

Grading: To pass this course the student must:
attend class with no more than four absences.
complete classroom and homework assignments demonstrate skill in reading and comprehension that will insure success in English 1 and in the work place.
