

English 1A Section 59180 Reading and Composition Spring 2017

About This Class

Welcome to English 1A Reading and Composition. The purpose of this class is to help you become a confident college reader and writer. You can expect to be reading and researching on a few different topics. You will also be writing, and revising multiple essays and other written assignments.

How to Navigate Canvas

You will need to access your materials and assignments through this home page. Many of you will be tempted to utilize the calendar and the gradebook as your primary access points. Please do not. I often allow revisions, so due dates are often not reflected accurately on the Canvas calendar. Also, I utilize Turnitin to provide feedback and you cannot access my comments on Turnitin if you go through the gradebook. Please get in the habit of using the navigation links below.

A note: Canvas is new to our campus. I will make mistakes. If you come across a dead link or an assignment that you cannot access, let me know and you will earn 1 point extra credit.

Links

Syllabus \(https://scccd.instructure.com/courses/12317/assignments/syllabus\)

Unit 1 \(https://scccd.instructure.com/courses/12317/pages/unit-1-the-tortilla-curtain\)

Unit 2

Unit 3

Unit 4

Contacting Me

In college, we do not have a lot of classroom contact. I hope you utilize my email and my office hours. You can also call me, but students often forget to leave their names and phone numbers on messages, so I encourage you to use email. Make sure you sign your emails so I know who you are.

Email: rebecca.snyder@reedleycollege.edu \(mailto:rebecca.snyder@reedleycollege.edu\)

Office: HUM 61 (back side of the building--it's there, keep looking)