Course Description

Sociology 1A promotes the understanding of society and how it works. It also examines how society affects individuals and how individuals affect society. It is an introduction to the principles and theoretical perspectives of sociology and their applications to social life through reading, writing, lecture and discussion. Discussion of sociological methods and findings in such areas as family, socialization, culture, race relations, stratification, social change and deviance will be reviewed.

Course Objectives

There are several objectives that I have for this course. First, I would like you to become familiar with the sociological perspectives so that you can apply them to your understanding of the world we live in. Secondly, you should learn to use the major concepts that sociologists have devised in the study of society. Finally, I expect you to participate intelligently during class discussions and be able to think creatively and critically about the concepts as they relate to "our lives." I hope that during this course and the discussions we have that you can incorporate theory and/or methods, concepts and topics related to sociology.

Course Organization

The course objectives will be reached through a program of directed reading, writing, lectures, exams/quizzes and discussions.

Text: Custom Edition of - The Essentials of Sociology, by James Henslin 13th edition (older editions are OK).

Reading Assignments: A schedule detailing reading assignments, homework assignments, and examinations is included in the syllabus.

Lectures: My lectures are designed to supplement what you are reading in the text, and are an extension and application of topics. I hope that we can discuss issues and experiences as they relate to our readings. Keep in mind you are responsible for the reading assignments whether or not they are discussed in class.

Course Requirements and Grading

Examinations: There will be four exams covering the assigned readings each worth 30 points. Exams will cover three chapters and will be in the form of multiple-choice, matching, fill-in or short answer. It is your responsibility to be prepared for the exams when they are scheduled thus I will not give make-up exams!

(Exceptions: Jury Duty and Military Duty with verifiable written documentation.)

I will drop your lowest exam score, excluding the final. The final exam will consist of 35 questions worth 35 points (The final exam covers the entire semester's class discussions and reading assignments including Chapter 15). Follow all exam procedures carefully. It will be necessary for you to have on the day of each exam Scantron Form # 882-E forms plus pencils. They are to be filled out in pencil. If you have an exam scoring question, contact me immediately (within 2 days) or scores are final.

Writing: Additionally, a percentage of your grade will be based on your writing/critical thinking ability. The major writing assignment will be a term paper (minimum 2 pages in length). You are to select a topic from the list at the end of this syllabus. Follow the detailed directions. This assignment is due in class on or before Friday, July 12th. No late papers will be accepted; no exceptions. No papers are to be submitted via e-mail or other means. The term paper is worth 20 points.

Homework: Homework assignments are posted on-line in Canvas and are to be submitted on-line. They consist of 5 True/False statements. Homework will be made available to correspond to the lectures. The due dates are posted in Canvas. However, the homework may be completed and submitted up to the date and time of the exam that covers the homework assignments. After the test no homework will be able to be submitted. Plan ahead in case of a computer or internet malfunction.

Attendance/Participation:

Attendance will be taken every class meeting. Attendance is required because there will be some learning that is not directly evaluated and missed if you are not in class. I believe attendance and participation are necessary for success in this course, thus my policy is to drop anyone who misses 6 credit hours in the first two weeks of the semester. Being tardy is disruptive to class, so do not be tardy. Plan ahead. It is ultimately your responsibility to withdraw from the course. If you miss a class, you are responsible for obtaining the information conveyed in that missed lecture. There are No Excused absences. If you have any special needs or disabilities, please inform me as soon as possible so that I may accommodate you. The Disabled Students Program and Services (DSPS) 638-0332 is also available to assist you. The tutorial center and the computer lab are also available, call 638-0358, for hours and services.

ADA Statement:

"If you have a verified need for an academic accommodation or materials in alternate media (ie: Braille, large print, electronic text, etc.) per the American With Disabilities Act or Section 504 of the Rehabilitation act please contact your instructor as soon as possible."

Pet peeves: "Zipping up" prior to the end of class. DO NOT begin packing up (stacking up your stuff/closing your notebooks) until the end of the regularly scheduled class time. Within class, I expect mutual respect. This means no "chatting/talking" while I am lecturing or while classmates are talking. Feel free to speak your mind or relate your position to the rest of the class WHEN you are given the floor. If you must leave early let me know before class begins. "Catching Z's" during class is disrespectful behavior and will not be tolerated (you are absent). While in class turn all cellphones off. THE USE OF WORD PROCESSING AND/OR TELECOMMUNICATIONS DEVICES IN THIS CLASS IS PROHIBITED. If you cannot control a conditioned response to do such activities in a classroom setting, please dis-enroll from this course immediately. Violation of these "rules" may result in you being required to leave the class (and if this behavior continues, you will be suspended and lose your attendance points). The college has a strict policy on cheating and plagiarism. Because cheating, plagiarism, and collusion in dishonest activities erode the integrity of the college, each student is expected to exert an honest effort in all academic endeavors. Academic dishonesty in any form is a very serious offense and will incur serious consequences. I reserve the right to fail anyone for cheating.

Grading: All grading will be on the basis of the number of points earned out of the total points possible (220)*. This number will be expressed as a percentage and based on the following scale: 90 to 100% = A (198-220)

80 to 89.99% = B (176-197)

70 to 79.99% = C (154-175)

60 to 69.99% = D (132-153)

0 to 59.99% = F (0 - 131)

*The total points are subject to change. Total Possible Points: 220

Homework assignments (13 x 5) 65 points. Posted on Canvas and to be submitted on-line.

Written Assignment: 20 points.

Exams: 4 exams x 30 points = 120 points – 30 (I will drop your lowest score) = 90 points.

Final: 35 points

Class Participation: 10 points

Extra Credit: 10 points possible. The extra credit true/false statements may be completed anytime during the summer session up to midnight prior to the final.

No late term papers will be accepted for any reason. No exceptions! The term papers are to be handed in in class on or before the due dates. No assignments or term papers are to be submitted via e-mail or other means.

Suggestions for Student Success

1. This is a college course. You are a college student and will be respected and treated as a college student.
2. It is your responsibility to be able to have access to Canvas.
3. Be on time (or early) for tests.
4. Bring a pencil and Scantron 882E.
5. If you stop attending class, drop the course.
6. If you stop attending class and reappear, see the professor (he missed you).
7. Keep the course syllabus. It tells you some important things about the class.
8. If you arrive late, it is best to be as unobtrusive as possible in finding a seat.
9. When you arrive late, don't begin a conversation with someone who was paying attention before you interrupted the class with your late arrival.
10. Follow the instructions on assignments - don't make up your own.
11. If you make an agreement for a special arrangement with the professor, and subsequently failed to live up to the agreement, make a new one with the professor before proceeding.
12. When the papers written beautifully, but doesn't include what Professor (or the text) is teaching, it could be assumed that it was taken from the Internet. Do not plagiarize!
13. Tell the truth about handing in papers.
14. When you've been busted for plagiarism, give it up.
15. No, the professor does not carry a stapler.

16. It's not good manners to walk up to the front of the class while the professor is lecturing.
17. When asked for your name, give your full name.
18. When you are late with an assignment, or don't follow the assignment; you receive the grade you earn. It's called accountability.
19. If you are talking during a lecture (or video) and the professor is staring at you, it's a cue to stop talking.
20. You should know your professor's name.
21. Keep e-mail messages short and to the point-state the class you're in as well.
22. Don't ask for "extra credit" if you haven't accomplished the "regular credit."
23. If you use e-mail to communicate, check it to see if there is a response.
24. The class is in session until the professor announces it is finished - remain calm until it's over (and don't begin packing up or stacking up your stuff before then).
25. If you have any questions about your grade, check before the end of the semester to avoid any surprises.
26. Please do not enter a classroom before the previous class is dismissed.

Term Paper / Written Assignment:

The written assignment is to be typed, double-spaced, 12 pt. font, two pages minimum in length, and is to be handed in in class on or before the due date. Points based on content (critical sociological analysis of the material) and appearance (grammar, spelling, organization). Always keep a copy. Select one of the following topics:

Topic A: Based upon the sociological perspective of Functionalism consider the following: Religion has endured and flourished through the centuries. Select one religion, denomination, or sect and describe how it is functional for society. State at least 3 examples. You are to employ sociological terms and the functionalist's perspective. Remember to think in terms of macro-sociological concepts & specify clearly what groups/institutions, etc. are involved and how they perpetuate the status quo; i.e., how they are functional or dysfunctional.

Topic B: At your place of work (real or imaginary) your fellow employees are in discussion with a representative from a national union. The intention is to unionize the workplace. Describe in sociological terms and utilizing the conflict theory, analyze the circumstances at your workplace. Give 3 examples of conflict and state the nature of the conflict. Remember to think in terms of macro-sociological concepts & specify clearly what groups/institutions, etc. are involved and how they are in conflict and the nature of the conflict.

Topic C: You have a close friend (since childhood, real or imaginary) and he/she comes out gay to you or as transgender (you choose). Describe in sociological terms and utilizing the symbolic interactionist perspective, describe your 'new' feelings and attitude towards your friend. How has your relationship been changed? What will others think? What about your family? Give at least 3 examples of symbolic interactionism; before and after. This assignment focuses on the micro-sociological level: what labels & symbols apply? How are they altered? State clearly the labels & symbols you point out.

The writing assignment will be worth 20 points and will be graded according to the following criteria: 5 points for clearly stating the topic and defining the appropriate sociological perspective; 10 points for clearly stating your position with at least 3 lines of reasoning in support of your position employing sociological principles and sociological terms; and 5 points for your summary and overall appearance (length, grammar, spelling, and organization). No papers will be accepted after the specified due date. No exceptions!
