Reedley College	Instructor:
Course: English 1A (4 units)	Transfer to CSU and UC
Days and Time: M/T/F 5th and 6th period	E-Mail: justin_santos@sangerusd.net
Location: Sanger High School	Office Hours: No traditional office hours. I will make myself available during the school day when needed.

Course Description

Please take the time to read through my syllabus carefully and closely. Be sure to take notes regarding late work, attendance policies and how to communicate with me. In addition, be sure to read through the course overview and course objectives. Moreover, you can sign-up for additional assistance with the Writing Center and/or Learning Center online (see links at the end of syllabus).

English 1A: College Reading and Composition is a course created to extend your opportunities for reading, writing, thinking and inquiry. This course is designed to develop your abilities as a reader and writer—a literacy user—to join academic and public conversations as citizens in our society. This course will teach you to use reading and writing to make meaning, to analyze, to join a conversation and to address an audience. We will focus on reading texts that focus on the theme of bildungsromans (coming of age) and writing as a form of critical thinking practice that will help facilitate growth in your own personal journey. We will learn how to read and analyze arguments and how to write clearly and persuasively as well as research various topics in regards to entering adulthood. This course will, in some ways, prepare you for the future writing tasks you will perform both in and beyond the university.

Students will read, analyze, and compose college-level prose, with emphasis on the expository; study writing as a process; explore different composing structures and strategies; edit and revise their own writing; and conduct research (gather, organize, evaluate, integrate, and document information), culminating in a term research paper and annotated bibliography. Students will write a minimum of 5,000 words in formal academic language.

Please keep in mind that learning is recursive and it takes time and effort to learn how to read and write effectively at the college level. Don't hesitate to ask questions when anything we do seems unclear to you.

Course Materials

Required Texts:

- Coelho, Paulo. The Alchemist. Harper Collins, 2014. (will be provided by the Sanger High School library)
- Various other narrative and nonfiction readings/samples that have yet to be determined.

You will need access to a computer/internet, access to Canvas and to your SCCCD email account. Some course materials are also under “Pages” on the course Canvas for shorter reading assignments.

Where Do I Look for Assignments?

- All assignments will be posted on Reedley Canvas. We will not be using Sanger High Canvas
- I organize my assignments by Modules. Clicking on the modules tab will be the easiest way to find all of your assignments and other resources.

Course Objectives

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- A. Write a documented research paper, literary analysis essay, and personal essay that include:
 - A sophisticated introduction, multiple body paragraphs, and conclusion
 - A clearly defined, arguable thesis sentence
 - Supporting details that exhibit critical thinking and use credible sources
 - Correct usage of MLA format, including a works cited page
 - Sentences that exhibit a command of the complex/compound with minimal comma splices fragments, and other mechanical issues
 - Controlled and sophisticated word choice
 - An avoidance of logical fallacies
 - Demonstrating an awareness of purpose and audience
 - Appropriate and purposeful use of quotations
 - Correct in-text citations
 - An annotated bibliography of multiple sources
 - An avoidance of intentional and unintentional plagiarism
- B. Complete a timed essay independently in class
- C. Summarize and comprehend college level prose (will include a full reading)

Course Requirements and Policies

Class Participation: Discussion will be an integral part of the course, so be prepared for class (on time) to offer productive discussion of the course readings, respecting others' views. Preparation involves not only reading but also making notes on the reading to prepare for discussion. You must bring textbooks to class when a chapter is to be discussed according to the class schedule. Ignoring this requirement will affect your participation grade. The Discussions on the course Canvas website is another venue in which you can participate in class discussion. I will create various forums within which you and your classmates can discuss the literature we are reading. As part of your participation grade, you will post short writing assignments (reading responses and other short writings) on a regular basis.

Canvas: In this class, you will have several opportunities to try out different genres of online writing for most of the writing you do for this class. I use Canvas as a means of providing information (about assignments, changes to the schedule...) and as a way to enhance your learning experience (through online discussions, e-mail and links to useful websites). You should familiarize yourself with Canvas's features and be prepared to use them. Always double-check Canvas for announcements on assignments, class and/or schedule changes

Contacting Me: If you would like to discuss work-in-progress, or have questions/concerns about the class, the best way to contact me is in person or through email. Because I am also a teacher here at Sanger High, I will not have traditional office hours. However, we will have more class time together than a traditional college course (5 hours a week). That being said, if you need to reach out for me for an additional meeting, I will make myself available upon request. Expect a response of at least 1 business day. I do not respond during weekends. Reach out to peers for notes and assignments before contacting me when possible. Exchange phone numbers with a classmate for this purpose and check Canvas often.

Course Assignments

Major Writing Projects: This semester you will write three major writing projects—a personal essay, a literary analysis essay and a research paper. Class assignments are designed to build on each other so you can apply what you have learned in each assignment to your essays. The major papers will involve multiple drafts and writing workshops. I will give you assignment prompts at the beginning of each unit so that you have a clear idea about what you are required to do in these papers. Each draft and final version of these essays will be due on Canvas and used in class for revision. You will have opportunities to revise your projects.

Short Writing Assignments: Throughout the year we will have embedded short writing assignments to utilize the skills developed in class. These assignments are various in range and topic and will have specific instructions that will be explained when assigned.

Writing Workshops: A key component to this class is peer response to drafts of formal and informal writing. Students will be expected to share their writing with peers in order to get feedback about how to revise the writing to better address an audience's questions, challenges and responses. This means that everyone will need to share their writing with others AND strive to be a good reader to peer drafts. We will workshop your essays in small groups and as a large group. You will get more specific instructions later, and keep in mind that I will expect you to share your texts with your peers and be open to their response. I also expect that you will read your peer's texts actively and work hard to give them quality feedback about how they can improve their writing.

Final: This will be a Timed Essay that will be completed during class. The prompt will encompass the topics and themes we've discussed during class. More specific directions will be revealed at a later time.

A guide to emailing your professor

Many of the answers to your questions can be found from this syllabus, the class schedule and Canvas. If you need further explanation, please ask a peer or feel free to email me. When emailing, you can address me with Dear Mr. Santos or Prof. Santos. Remember to keep it professional and do not use informal language. You should include the following in the subject line of your email:

Full Name, Class Title & period, Subject of Email.

Late Work Policy

Late/Missing Assignments: You will agree to turn in the essay assignments, all writing project drafts, discussions, and other assignments in a timely and complete manner. Because your colleagues in class depend on you to get your work done on time so that they can do theirs on time,

- Late rough drafts for the personal, literary analysis, and research papers will not be accepted.
- Final Drafts will be accepted late but for reduced points. I will take off 10/15/20 (Depending on the essay) points off for each day it is late. After two weeks you will NO LONGER be able to turn in the assignment. No exceptions.
- Day-to-day assignments will be accepted late, so long as they are turned in during the grading period they were assigned. Once the grading period is over, the assignments will be locked. Extensions for assignments must be requested at least 1 day before the due date with a reasonable excuse. Extensions will not be given the day an assignment on the day it is due.

College Policies

- Plagiarism
 - By enrolling in this course, you join a community requiring academic integrity. When you write your name on an assignment, you take credit for the work contained, whether that be an entire text or only a sentence. Plagiarism, cheating, and other forms of academic dishonesty demonstrate a disrespect of the community and will not be tolerated.

- Remember to always quote and cite your sources appropriately, even if they are unpublished or from friends or classmates. An unacknowledged paraphrase, a patchwork from several sources, as well as the submission of someone else's work (published or not), all constitute plagiarism in the eyes of the college, and will result in a failure of this course. Please ask questions if you're ever unsure BEFORE you turn in work. Ignorance IS NOT an acceptable excuse. Scholars would agree that "plagiarism is a specific form of cheating: the use of another's words or ideas without identifying them as such or giving credit to the source" (excerpt from CSUF's Policies). You will automatically receive zero points on the assignment and the incident will be noted on your academic record if you are caught plagiarizing.
- Authority and Disciplinary Actions
 - Instructors shall be in charge of their classes and students are under obligation to respect the authority of each instructor. Reedley College seeks to develop responsible, democratic citizenship among the students enrolled. Students are responsible for their conduct. Failure to adhere to the college's standards will result in disciplinary action. The college reserves the right to exclude at any time a student who violates student conduct standards and/or is not taking proper advantage of the opportunities offered. (See Student Right to Know on page 10). Reedley College reserves the right to exclude at any time a student who, in the judgment of the administration, is not taking proper advantage of the opportunities offered.
 - In accordance with student conduct policy, if you are disruptive, and disrespectful, to myself, and to the atmosphere of my class, I will ask you to leave and not return for the following class session. Your removal from class will count as absences against you. I will fill out a disruptive behavior report and recommend suspension or removal of my class depending on the severity of the situation. If you are caught cheating such as plagiarizing information on a paper I will fill out an academic dishonesty grievance against you. The end result may be removal, fail from class, or expulsion from school depending on the severity of what occurred.
- Accommodation:
 - If you have a verified need for an academic accommodation or materials in alternate media (i.e. Braille, large print, electronic text, etc.) per the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) or Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, please contact me as soon as possible.

Academic Resources

- Disabled Students Programs & Services (DSP&S) is designed to provide specialized services and accommodations that assist students with documented disabilities to reach their maximum potential while achieving their educational goals. DSP&S staff interact with all areas of the campus to eliminate physical, academic and attitudinal barriers.
